Quiet Place for Relaxation

"We stayed at Kyoya Ryokan Nagoya for 5 days in May 2019. It is a traditional Japanese inn (complete with a Japanese garden and public bath) located in a quiet residential area. Since it is about 15 to 20 minutes walk from Nagoya station, we always booked a taxi going to and from the train station. The cost of a one-way taxi ride was 700 to 1,000 yen.

The owner was very friendly and helpful. He happily accommodated all our requests and attended to all our needs, including booking taxis early in the morning. He even gave us a going-away present when we checked out.

We stayed at a dormitory-type room with four beds, a small living room, and a kitchenette complete with plates and utensils. There's even free coffee and tea 24 hours a day at the ground floor.

Our group of three friends had the room to ourselves during the duration of our stay. Thus, we had all the privacy we wanted for a very low price.

If central location is not a big concern for you, then you will surely enjoy your stay at Kyoya Ryokan. It's a home away from home."
